

Organizing Committee, Volunteer Role Corporate Sponsorships

OVERVIEW

The London Run for Ovarian Cancer was started 22 years ago by a small grass roots group in support of their friend who had developed ovarian cancer. This event generates the largest amount of funding for London Health Sciences Centre (LHSC) of any peer-to-peer fundraising event in London.

Thousands of women across Canada are living with ovarian cancer. Lack of reliable early detection tests and few treatment options mean many women are at stage three and four by the time they are diagnosed and, as a result, 70 per cent will die because of the disease.

Funds raised by the London Run for Ovarian Cancer provide the Translational Ovarian Cancer Research Unit at LHSC with necessary resources to conduct important research and to establish research collaborations with researchers across Canada to develop new ways to kill ovarian cancer cells.

THE OPPORTUNITY

Corporate sponsorships provide funds for covering the operating expenses of the London Run for Ovarian Cancer. The pandemic reduced the number of our corporate sponsors, so it is critical to the future of the Run to obtain new corporate sponsors. We are looking for volunteers who have contacts in the business community

QUALIFICATIONS

REQUIRED

- A strong desire to make a meaningful difference within the community.
- Ability to dedicate three hours per week from November through June.
- Must be available to attend committee meetings regularly from December to May.
- Proactively engage in corporate outreach activities outside of scheduled meetings.
- Comfortable with reaching out to local businesses to secure sponsorships.
- Familiarity with local businesses and the ability to leverage this knowledge effectively.

PREFERRED:

- Experience in sponsorship, marketing or sales
- Past volunteer experience
